In today's competitive era everyone is running for the best with high expectations parents try to give their wards the best facilities available along with a safe environment. While some children secure seats in elite institutions the majority of others pave their own way and a few like Raunak stand out .Raunak is the eldest of his siblings having a younger brother and a sister.

Raunak's father is a petty roadside shopkeeper in Patna who strives hard to make both side ends meet. Today Raunak is studying in a government school and is in class 9th .After joining Diksha Foundation in 2013.He started recognizing his hidden talents apart from being a student he has a helpful attitude. With science being his favorite subject he concentrated on exploring and making new devices which would help society. Writing an idea for National Innovation Foundation India (Which works in collaboration with Diksha) his idea was selected for the 'IGNITE' award 2015.His idea was based on preventing bus accidents wherein passengers lost their arms while jutting them out .He went to Ahmadabad (Gujarat) with his mother to receive the award from the president Mr. Pranab Mukhrjee .This was a memorable day of his life .One idea changed his life and he became a role model for others .For appreciating his idea Naz Foundation also gave him a Dictionary and some money for his studies .It is nice to know that Inspector of police is sponsoring Raunak's tuition fees as a support for his studies.

Raunak is an example of children who have no facility compared to others but he has proved that they have the sincerity and enthusiasm then they can achieve anything .We wish him success in life.
