INJUSTICE OF JUSTICE

TIHAR JAIL, TIHAR VILLAGE, NEW DELHI

WHY?

When the breadwinner of a family is incarcerated, his or her family suffers, innocent victims of the course of justice. It is this “injustice of justice” along with plight of inmates that Samarpan Foundation is striving to address.

Tihar Jail is India’s highest security facility. It is also the largest prison complex in the world, comprised of 10 jails. The total inmate population is around 13,000, more than double its official capacity. Three-quarters of those incarcerated are awaiting trial, and many of this number will be trapped in the justice system for years before their innocence or guilt is determined.

Around 77% of the prison population earned an annual income of less than Rs. 50,000 at the time of their arrest, the majority facing charges under the Indian Penal Code (IPC). More than 40% of the inmates are illiterate, and face a life of poverty and crime in the community to which they are returned.

Providing food to the families of inmates is the first step in showing them that someone genuinely cares for them. Once the families have confidence in us, we start motivating them to educate their children. We provide support for the children’s education by funding school and tuition fees and monitoring their progress through constant interaction with their teachers.

We locate the families of inmates, pay their house rent, place the children in schools, provide rations and offer skills training to the womenfolk so that they can be independent. By working over a period of months with the families of inmates, we are able to build bridges with the inmates themselves and, having gained their trust, are able to help them learn a trade enabling them to lead honest lives upon release.

In these and other ways, Samarpan Foundation is working to transform the lives of the inmates and their families, by providing their immediate needs and - ultimately - by empowering them to lead self-sustaining, independent lives.
